10 inspiring Singapore companies you should know about

Who said business was all about profits, profits and more profits?

In a globally competitive market like Singapore, entrepreneurs and good business people are not hard to find.

But good business people are not just about profits. It often takes guts, vision and determination for an entrepreneur to succeed.

Who are some of Singapore's most inspiring business people?

From a pair of entrepreneurs who devote their time to medical research and investment to a music company with the aim of spreading the rich history of Chinese music to the world, here are 10 Singapore companies that will inspire you to get on your feet and chase those success dreams you never thought you could achieve.

Clearbridge BioMedics

Clearbridge BioMedics is a spin-off from the National University of Singapore (NUS) and is also the first incubatee of Clearbridge Accelerator, a Singapore Government backed high-technology incubator.

The two are awaiting patent for a machine that can trap rare cancer cells in blood samples and allow researchers to tailor a much more personal treatment for cancer patients. The system could eventually even be used for cancer screening.
